TABLE TOPIC CONTEST

Department of English and Humanities

Semester – I (2020-2021)

Dr. Neelu Jain (HOD, E&H)

Ms. Sonia Khubchandani (Event Coordinator, Dept. of E&H)

As we know that Department of English and Humanities carries out Language Lab activities during the respective lab classes as per time table we conduct activities every year ,this time also during this Pandemic English and humanities took an initiative to conduct activities which will help them to enhance their Communication skills.

For this, Department of English and Humanities conducted a Language Lab activity (Table Topic competition) on Monday, Feb, 1, 2021 for the students of First year students First semester. There were 90 registrations through Google form cum Registration and evaluation form, there were some parameters on which the students were evaluated and then final students competed for the main round. The final contestants were 30 in number. The list was shared with students on group. There was a WhatsApp group which was updated for the event from time to time with reminders etc. The event kick started at sharp 2 .pm on Zoom platform by introduction to what table topic is exactly? The students were divided into 3 groups of ten each and there were different role players who took the entire event forward. The Contestants were supposed to speak on the given topic for max of 2 min, there were some props which were used to give them their time, and the different topics were

1 Some people say a white lie is sometimes okay. What do you think?

2 What is now considered to be classy, but used to be very trashy?

And more The contestants tried their best to speak , In all there were three rounds and five judges including the Chief judge as a usual practice of toastmasters ,and three participants were finalised as first , second and third positions, The contest was carried forward by Ms. Sonia Khubchandani Assistant professor ,Event coordinator by declaring final results of evaluation and sharing her insightful comments on the entire contest . E certificates were also given. The event concluded by vote of thanksby HOD Dr .Neelu Jain. .
